INDIANA MAN

Was Burdick's Confessor and Rice May Testify

Mrs. Hull's Pastor Was the First Witness Thursday

Burdick Told Him that Pennell Had Remarked Something Might Happen—Woman in Case Still Being Sought by Police.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 26—There was a big jam about the doors of the court room at 8:30 o'clock this morning. At 10:36 o'clock the inquest was resumed, the first witness being the Rev. Levi M. Powers. The preacher was slightly nervous.

"Mr. Powers, you are the rector of the church of the Messiah?" asked Mr. Coatsworth.

"The minister," corrected Mr. Powers. "When I took charge four years ago, Mrs. Hull and Mrs. Burdick were members of the congregation. During all that time Mrs. Hull attended church when her health permitted. She was not very active in church work, because of her health. I had two talks with Mr. Burdick about his domestic affairs, the last one about two weeks before his death. On the occasion of his first talk I met him at his office. No, not at his request. I called to see him."

"Did any one ask you to call and see him?"

"No."

"What was the object of your call?"

"To talk with him regarding his private affairs. It was a matter of general report that there was family trouble."

Rev. Mr. Powers stated that Burdick said that Pennell had remarked that unless he, Burdick, let up on the divorce suit, something would happen. Mr. Powers said further:

"I walked home with Mr. Burdick one day and he told me almost everything that has come out in these proceedings. He also told me that when the trouble came out that Pennell had threatened to kill himself. At Mrs. Burdick's request her husband went to see Pennell and told him to brace up and get out of town and let the whole thing go."

"He told me about Mr. Pennell forcing Mrs. Burdick to fight the divorce suit. She told her husband it was not her fault that the action was being resisted."

"He also told me if Mr. Pennell continued to contest the suit, he, Burdick, proposed to make public the letters which Pennell had written to Mrs. Burdick. That, he said, would make Pennell very ridiculous before the public."

Carl Burdick, a little child of the dead man, was the next one on the stand but the child gave nothing new in the case.

M. BURDICK

Crushed by Wife's Conduct Told of Grief to an Indiana Friend—Suffered in Silence

Indianapolis, March 26—Herbert H. Rice, holding an official position with the Nardye-Marmion Company, in this city, reports that E. L. Burdick, the murdered Buffalo millionaire, was here a few weeks before the tragedy. Rice and Burdick were personal friends, and Burdick often came in the interest of the Roller Mill, the publication of which he controlled. During his last visit he appeared greatly troubled and in response to a casual inquiry by Mr. Rice he led Mr. Rice to a quiet corner in the factory and unburdened himself freely concerning Mr. Pennell and Mrs. Burdick, saying to Rice that he was so far from Buffalo that it could do no harm, and he must make a confidante of some one or he would go crazy.

He told Mr. Rice concerning the Pennells, saying that Pennell was a brilliant fellow socially, and Mrs. Burdick seemed to admire him very much, but his suspicions were never aroused until he heard that they were holding clandestine meetings. Then he confronted both Pennell and his wife, and both confessed to improper relations, but on the promise of Pennell to leave Buffalo, and of his wife, who agreed never again to meet him, he condoned the offense.

This promise was not kept by either Pennell or Mrs. Burdick and then he found a slip of paper containing a list of meeting places of dates in cipher. He worked out the key, and, accompanied by detectives, he found Pennell and Mrs. Burdick together, and with this indisputable evidence he determined to apply for a divorce. Then came a conference with Pennell and Mrs. Burdick, in which they consented to the proceedings, which were to be conducted quietly, so as to avoid notoriety, and they agreed that Mrs. Burdick should file an immediate answer. Instead, detectives were placed on his track, and a lot of false evidence was trumped up against him involving his friends.

Burdick at first did not know of this espionage, and, he says, being driven to a state of distraction by the conduct of Pennell and Mrs. Burdick sought relief in the society of his friends, riding in his automobile in the company of highly respectable ladies, playing golf and attending social functions, without thought that his actions would be misconstrued and his motives impugned.

Then Pennell and Mrs. Burdick threatened to use this evidence in besmirching the character of himself and friends, and, while he knew it was untrue, he was troubled how best to protect his friends and his children.

Mrs. Burdick pleaded for the society of her children, and he consented that she should have one at a time provided this false evidence was surrendered, but she declined the proposition, saying to him that she loved Pennell better than she could ever love him.

Burdick told Mr. Rice that on more than one occasion Pennell threatened to commit suicide, and that while the Pennells were in the East Mrs. Pennell wrote to him, begging that the divorce suit be dropped else she feared there would be a double suicide—that of herself and Mr. Pennell. Almost the last thing which Mr. Burdick said to Rice was that he did not intend to push the suit for a year or two because of his children, and in order to keep Pennell and Burdick guessing. Tears stood freely in his eyes while he talked. Rice says the man appeared to be heartbroken. Mr. Rice says that Burdick had no bad habits of which he was aware, and he always considered him an estimable man. Mr. Rice has notified the District Attorney at Buffalo concerning this talk with Burdick, hopeful that it will contradict this testimony besmirching his character.

WOMAN

In Burdick Case Still Sought by the Buffalo Authorities—Finger of Suspicion.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 26—The New York Herald correspondent wires the following to his paper:

"Although the prosecuting authorities of Buffalo have seemingly tried to fix the responsibility for the murder of Edwin L. Burdick upon Arthur E. Pennell it can be stated on the highest authority that they do not believe he committed the crime. The suspect is a woman who according to the police theory and the theories of rise out of ten who are in touch with the Burdick family. had a stronger motive for wishing him out of the way than did Mr. Pennell. They firmly believe that she killed him, possibly with assistance, but more likely without, and that the crime was perpetrated after long waiting and most careful planning.

Notwithstanding that the last acts of Pennell and the revelations of the last few days place him in a sinister light, painting his character far blacker than any one had predicted, the views of the highest officials do not change. They are bringing out the shame, the licentiousness and the duplicity of his life in order that, in the final absence of a solution of the profound mystery, the public may form its own opinion; but they cannot convince themselves that he killed Burdick. They base their belief in his innocence largely on his physical cowardice and what they believe is a lack of motive.

The woman whom they have in mind has been mentioned continuously in the case, particularly since Mrs. Paine was eliminated as a possible suspect. She has been questioned and has told stories which do not, in the estimation of the police, reveal by any means all of what she knows. She knows that she is suspected and knows that the authorities doubt what she has told them. It can be stated on the highest authority also that the police have small hope of ever obtaining a sufficient evidence even to warrant her arrest.

Circumstances which seem significant and slight conflict of stories are not sufficient to justify radical action, and the murder was so ingeniously planned and skillfully executed that there is practically no expectation of ever finding a bit of co-operation in the carrying out of the crime the authorities believe it was sought almost on the eve of the murder, and its effort was to cover up traces and divert suspicion rather than to help in the actual killing.

The men engaged on the case are surprised at the facility with which the lawyers representing Mrs. Burdick and Mrs. Hull have directed suspicion at Pennell. That, to them, is an indication that the finger of suspicion should be directed elsewhere. It has been apparent for many days that the Hartzells, the Burdick attorneys, who have practically lived at the Burdick home since the murder, were using all their efforts to place the guilt upon the dead lawyer. While they mentioned Pennell alone the District Attorney hinted at him as one of three who had conspired to get Burdick out of the way. The conspiracy theory found no favor with the Hartzells. With them it was Pennell, and Pennell alone.

ARREST

Of Third Negro Charged With Murder—Story Is Out.

Indianapolis, March 26—When the arrest of James H. Smith, the third man charged with the murder of Dr. George A. Harrison, was made, the police had all the time they could use to get the story out. The man was arrested at the home of his mother, Mrs. Mary Smith, at 1000 N. 10th street. The man is a native of Indiana and is about 35 years of age. He is a well known man in the community and has a good record. The police are now holding him in the city jail.

Cantrell arranged the deal and then the negro told him that a Chinaman had been murdered and that he knew all about the crime. This knowledge Cantrell gave to the police and the arrests followed.

IRISH LAND BILL

Passes Its First Reading in House of Commons

Millions for Tenants, Peace and Thrift for Ireland

Redmond Predicts Acceptance of the Bill—Chief Secretary's Speech Cheered—Opinions on the Measure are Expressed by Leaders.

Dublin, March 26—While some of the Irish papers hesitate to speak enthusiastically of the Irish land bill, the general tenor of the comment is favorable. The Nationalist papers criticize the details but generally allow grudging admiration for the whole scheme.

The Duke of Abercorn said: "It looks as though the ancient hatchet has been buried."

Several Conservative members expressed their anxiety at the government going more deeply into debt, but the general opinion was that the end justified the means.

In the course of his speech, which was punctuated by cheers, Mr. Wyndham said the landlords of Ireland were being ruined morally and the taxpayers of England were paying £700,000 per annum to the land commission and £7,000,000 to the Irish police, which largely was needed to deal with the illegalities arising from the land question.

"Is it remarkable under these circumstances," asked the Irish secretary, "if the landlords and tenants come together?"

In conclusion Mr. Wyndham said there were two alternatives before the country. They could prolong for another 150 years the present tragedy in Ireland or they could now initiate and henceforth prosecute a business transaction occupying some 15 years, based on self-esteem, prudence and mutual goodwill of all concerned.

Mr. Wyndham finished speaking at 4:10 p. m. Later the bill passed its first reading.

NEWARK'S FINANCES

In Better Condition Than Any City of
Its Size in Ohio as Shown by State Auditor's Report.

The American-Tribune hurls the epithet of "figure juggler" at the Advocate. That is the only way the A-T. has to answer the figures in the last annual report of the State Auditor (see pages 346 and 347) which show Newark's financial condition to be BETTER than that of any of the other cities of the State of its wealth and population.

The figures there given, which we challenge the American-Tribune to deny, show that Newark's indebtedness is LESS THAN THAT OF ANY CITY IN THE STATE of its wealth and population, and LESS THAN HALF of the average indebtedness of all the cities of its class.

Moreover, the same report shows that Newark's rate of taxation is LOWER than the average of all the cities of the State.

The A-T. had better apply the epithet of "figure juggler" to the Auditor of State. It does not belong to anybody on the staff of the Advocate.

In the annual statement of City Clerk Maurath there was not reported a collection of $400 that City Engineer Reamer claims he paid into the office during his service as civil engineer of the city.—American-Tribune.

Perhaps the American-Tribune has been misled into making the above false and slanderous charge against Mr. Maurath. At an early date the editor promised to make correction in today's issue of the paper.

MR. PAYNE RESIGNS

Is Completely Disgusted With the Tactics of the American-Tribune, and Repudiates the Alleged Interview—Accuses that Paper of Giving the First Ward to the Democrats.

Ora J. Payne, Republican candidate for council from the First ward, has resigned from the ticket, and absolutely refused to make the race against Judge Hunter, in view of recent events in which Mr. Payne was placed in a ridiculous position by the American-Tribune foisting an alleged interview on him.

Mr. Payne said this morning that he was through with politics, and that he would never submit to have his actions dictated by any newspaper or clique of politicians.

"Why any one who read that alleged interview, was positive I had nothing to do with it. I never saw it until it was in print. The most of it was manufactured for me out of the whole cloth, and did not express my sentiments at all.

"I did intend to introduce an ordinance which would have placed the figure juggler in the Advocate office please explain how the man Maurath, candidate for City Auditor, who now seeks to be entrusted with the safe keeping of the city's records again, failed to appertain the money received from the issuing of the bonds that were ostensibly to replenish the treasury of the board of health into the sanitary fund but side-tracked it into the general fund? This is pointed out, but it requires an explanation.—American-Tribune.

Because the money was drawn out of the general fund in the first place to meet the extraordinary expenditures caused by the smallpox epidemic. The money received for the bond issue had to be placed back to the fund from which it was drawn. When the smallpox expenditures had to be met there was not sufficient funds in the sanitary fund for the purpose, but there was in the general fund, which is the fund designed to meet all such emergencies that may arise. The smallpox expenditures having thus been paid out of the general fund, this was the fund that had to be replenished by the money received from the bond issue.

Now, neighbor, do you think that such an epithet as "figure juggler" helps you any when you are caught in an attempt at such a palpable misrepresentation as the above?

As to "Personal Journalism," From the abuse directed towards the American-Tribune by our esteemed contemporary, it is evident that the campaign this spring is not to be conducted on the lines of heated and well fought political discussions, but must needs partake of that personal journalism that for years was conducted in this country and became a stench in the nostrils of an outraged public.—American-Tribune.

This sniveling whimper is most characteristic of the paper which many Republicans of city and county refuse to recognize as the party organ. Because an outrageous and silly attempt on its part to make political capital out of the salary ordinance, which was passed by a non-partisan vote in the council, was exposed by the Advocate in a logical and unanswerable manner, which showed the paper up in its bald and unscrupulous demagoguery, it winces and getting off the question entirely indulges in many paragraphs of whining recrimination and blubbering falsehood.

The Payne interview, the editorial laudation of Mr. Payne, his final refusal to sacrifice his self-respect at its dictation, the repudiation of the entire affair by the other four Republican councilmen, and then the uncalled-for "roast" of the man who refused to be further duped, were chapters in the complete story of journalistic assiduity with which the public now is familiar.

The Advocate exposed the entire affair, but throughout no word of per-nance to reconsider the city officials' salaries, but I should have first submitted it to the other councilmen and have gotten their views. The American-Tribune took the matter out of my hands and attempted to dictate my actions, and there is where I balked. I will tell you some time the inside history of the 'Payne interview.' I think I know who wrote it and in whose interest it was written, and I wouldn't be surprised if the Republican candidate for City Solicitor should also resign. I did not see the interview written, but am pretty positive who did it. To be candid I was victimized by the American-Tribune and a clique of politicians, and by the idiotic policy of that paper the First ward is hopelessly lost to the Republicans. I could have carried it, but now it is certain to go to the Democrats."

Personal journalism appeared. The thing was done by this paper in a clear, logical manner, without prejudice or passion, in the interest of the citizens of our city.

In the same issue that the American-Tribune indulges in a childish protest against "personal journalism," it hurls the epithet of "figure juggler" at the editor of the Advocate and carries an attack on City Clerk Frank Maurath which every lawyer who was asked today, of both parties, says is criminally libelous.

But so far as the Advocate is concerned, during this campaign no odious appellation has been applied or directed at the editor or any writer in the American-Tribune, or at any Republican candidate.

The conditions which are facing the city of Newark are appalling. With the tax levy up to three cents, with a three hundred thousand dollar water works proposition, and a $25,000 hospital question to be settled in the near future, it seems as though this Democratic City Council has put our city in a hole from which it will be hard to extricate her. Financially Newark is evidently up a stump.—American-Tribune.

As Newark's financial condition is FAR BETTER than any of the other cities of the State of its wealth and population, the above looks very much like a disguised attempt to side-track and defeat the will of the people on the water works question.

Despite all of the efforts of the American-Tribune a year ago against the proposition for ownership of city water works, which were based on just such misrepresentations as the above, the people voted in favor of the proposition by the overwhelming majority of nearly three to one.

But the above "argument" on the part of the American-Tribune shows it has not given up the fight against city ownership, and the people must take warning. Men are to be elected this spring to city offices who will have the power before their terms expire to render null and void all that the people have done to secure city ownership of water works. We shall have more to say on this subject than the people will want to know about.

HAVE HAD THEIR DAY

Old Fashioned Medicine for Catarrh No Longer in Vogue.

For many years past the usual treatment for catarrh diseases was with local douches, sprays, inhalers and liquid medicines composed principally of alcohol, all of which never cured but simply gave temporary relief and stimulation.

A thorough cure can be made only by the treatment which removes the catarrhal poisons from the blood.

A new remedy which meets the requirements and which so far has been remarkably successful in curing catarrh is Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

These tablets act upon the blood and mucous membrane only.

They can hardly be classed as a secret patent medicine as they are composed of such valuable remedies as blood root, Hydrastin, red gum of Eucalyptus tree and similar antiseptics combined in tablet form, which cure by eliminating from the blood and mucous membrane the poisons of catarrh.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are large, pleasant tasting lozenges to be taken internally, allowing them to dissolve in the mouth, thus reaching the throat, trachea and finally the stomach.

If desired they may also be dissolved in water and used as a douche, in addition to the internal use but it is not at all necessary to use a douche; a few of them dissolved in the mouth daily will be sufficient. However, when there is much stoppage of the nose a douche made from these tablets will give immediate relief, but the regular daily use internally will cure the whole catarrhal trouble without resorting to the inconvenience of a douche.

Dr. Bennett stated "that the internal treatment of catarrh by means of pleasant medicated tablets is rapidly taking the place of douches and local applications" and further says that "probably the best and certainly the safest remedy at present on the market is the Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, as no secret is made of their composition and all the really efficient catarrh remedies are concentrated in this tablet."

Druggists sell Stuart's Catarrh Tablets at 50 cents for full sized package, and he will tell you there is no safer, more palatable, efficient and convenient catarrh cure known to the trade. Mar. d19-21-26-28

JUDIC CHOLLET.

POULTRY POINTERS.

A healthy fowl will drink fifteen or twenty times a day.

Sharp gravel should always be supplied to fowls that are fattened in close confinement.

Box nests are all right if made large enough, the size depending upon the breed of fowls.

Lined meal is excellent as an egg producing meal, but it should be fed in connection with coarse or bulky foods.

Fert eggs laid before the shell has formed are caused by overfeeding. Give less food and more pounded shells or linseed.

A varied diet for poultry is a necessary help to their general health and has much to do with their value as breeders.

If disease appears and resists remedy, it is better to begin with new stock than to breed from those that have been sick a long time.

A light, sandy soil is always best for a poultry yard. A heavy clay soil is always damp and, unless care is taken, will cause roup, while a sandy soil, being dry, will promote warmth.

Appreciated Himself. A little boy while playing near the Serpentine fell into the water. An Irish laborer who was passing at the time, courageously jumped into the water, clothes and all, and rescued the boy, says Spare Moments.

A lady who had observed the brave deed went up to Pat and shaking his hand, said:

"I feel it an honor, my brave man, to shake hands with you. Many a worse man than you has been presented at court."

"Faith, you're right, mum," replied Pat as he proceeded to wipe the water out of his coat. "The last time Oi was presented at court Oi only got one month, while me mate got two, begorra!"

Saved by the Soloist. An old lady who at the last was certainly not very musical attended church one morning a little while ago. During the service an anthem was sung by the choir, during which a certain Mr. Wood rendered a solo. When returning home, the old lady remarked to a friend:

"Dear, dear! With a mass they made of that anthem, to be sure. Why, if it had not been for Mr. Wood they would have broken down entirely in one part!"—London Standard.

Discovering a Gold Mine. Gold was discovered in California in 1848 and in Colorado in 1858. The discovery was accidental in both cases, and the fact created the impression that mines were "lying around loose." Adventurers drifted about in hope of "stumbling upon a mine." Mr. Thayer in his "Marvels of the New West" mentions several instances of lucky "stumbling." Three men while looking for gold in California discovered the dead body of a man who evidently had been prospecting. "Poor fellow!" said one of the trio. "He has passed in his checks." "Let's give him a decent burial," said another. "Some wife or mother will be glad if ever she knows it." They began to dig a grave. Three feet below the surface they discovered signs of gold. The stranger was buried in another place, and where they had located a grave they opened a gold mine.

Tea Drunkards. Tea drunkards are nearly as numerous as opium fiends and social gamblers among our less guarded maids and matrons of the idle aristocracy of wealth. It is a terrible dissipation. Some of the victims boil the tea until every bit of the quercitannic acid is extracted from the leaves, which renders the beverage bitter and dangerous. It is so astringent that no mucous membrane can readily overcome its effect. Women who revel and luxuriate like it because it is a good "pick me up."—New York Press.

Mistaken the Problem. The new teacher asked of the class the following question: "John had five oranges. James gave him eleven, and he gave Peter seven. How many did he have left?"

Before this problem the class recoiled.

"Please, sir," said a young lad, "we always does our sums in apples."—Little Chronicle.

DESPAIR AND HOPE

A Tragic Life Story.

If there is anything in the theory that we get our heaven and hell here on earth, it could be said with perfect truth that a $1 medical prescription known as D. D. D., literally lifted this man out of hell. The awful miseries of a poisoned skin can be understood only by the afflicted. The nights of sleepless agony, with hands tied to prevent tearing the flesh, the rundown general condition which results, and the black hopelessness of life can all be visibly traced in the first of these photos. As will be seen, this man is a man of powerful physique, but it will be seen from his face in the first picture that it is a grim struggle to live and keep up his courage.

In contrast, if the reader will fairly consider the picture after treatment with D. D. D., a new man is seen. Study this picture, contrast the two. Something has worked a wonder here. Reader, it was nothing on earth but D. D. D. and a kind Providence which directed the attention of this man to a public announcement about this medicament and its wonderful work in such cases. Providence went farther than this; it gave him some confidence in what he read. He made up his mind that he would try it. To this fact he owes all the peace, content and happiness so plainly seen in his face in the second picture. He states that after the third application of the remedy all his over-riding distress had disappeared entirely. The fevered condition resulting from continued irritation had subsided, and he slept soundly nights.

The name of this gentleman is Mr. Henry Walters, of St. Louis, Mo. We have the sworn affidavit of Mr. Walters that in just twenty-nine days after starting treatment with D. D. D. he discontinued further use of it, every visible trace of the disease having disappeared. Since that time not a trace of the trouble has shown itself on any part of his body. His hair has since grown long and the scrubby beard previously grown on his face to hide the sores, is kept cleanly shaved, and he is today a man of strikingly fine appearance, with the highest ambition and activities in life and every happiness possible to most men here on earth. Results of this kind that are proven to be directly due to a preparation of this sort certainly call for public appreciation. This prescription in sealed bottles, bearing authentic label of D. D. D. Co. of Chicago, sold at $1. The bottle is a liberal one and has proved sufficient to entirely cure many cases.

is probably the worst and most stubborn of skin diseases, and it was for this that this prescription was studied out and perfected, but all skin diseases are caused by parasites or some form of germ life in the skin-structure. The prescription quickly and entirely annihilates all forms of parasitic life lodged anywhere in the skin. Many people imagine they have blood trouble when they break out with some form of skin affection, but not in one case in a hundred is this a fact, as the very healthiest blood is often found in the strongest men affected with breaks and eruptions of some kind in the skin. In all such cases the trouble is at the surface or near the surface, and it can be searched out and annihilated completely by this preparation.

The Above Is True.

I have received carefully prepared and fully attested documents and particulars regarding the case above mentioned of Mr. Henry Walters, of St. Louis, a victim of psoriasis, a form of eczema. I can say to all persons afflicted with any form of skin disease that the medical testimony submitted shows beyond a doubt that they can cure themselves by the use of this preparation. I say beyond a doubt. I mean this fully, providing the affection is really a skin disease, as it has been shown that each of the known germs that cause skin affection have been entirely routed out and conquered by the preparation.

PEOPLE OF THE DAY

A Veteran Who Will Retire.
Galusha A. Grow entered congress in 1851, retired in 1883, reentered it in 1891, and at the time of his death, still young in heart and possessed of remarkable mental and physical vigor, he will retire from congress on the 4th day of next March, having entered public life fifty-two years ago. He was twenty-seven years of age when he entered congress in 1851. His days were pregnant with peril. The most "starling drama of all national life" was just beginning. The fight over the repeal of the Missouri compromise was near at hand. When President Lincoln called the Thirty-seventh congress together in special session in 1861, Galusha Grow was chosen speaker. An appropriation of $500,000, passed in less than fifteen minutes, was the unparalleled record made by that congress.

GALUSHA A. GROW.

The enactment of the homestead law was due to Galusha Grow's intelligent and ceaseless efforts and is the proudest achievement of his useful life.

There can be no question as to the paternity of "Homestead Bill." Galusha A. Grow, although a bachelor, is the happy father of that wholesome child.

He conceived the bill. He introduced it into congress. He fought its battles for ten years on the floor of the house. He signed the bill as speaker of the Thirty-seventh congress, and by the signature of Abraham Lincoln it became a law. Nearly 90,000,000 acres of public domain have been permanently occupied under the homestead law, making about 670,000 entries, and the beneficiaries number over 7,000,000.

Senator Allison's Answer.

No member of congress is so successful in keeping his views out of the papers as Senator Allison of Iowa. His dexterity in this matter has earned for him the nickname "Pussy Foot."

Some time ago he dictated to his secretary a reply to a letter asking for his opinion on a certain matter. When he had concluded, the senator asked his secretary what he thought of the answer.

"Well, senator," said the secretary, "to be candid with you, I can't make out just what you do mean."

"That's it, that's it," said the senator approvingly. "I don't want him to know either."

Mande Gonne to Wed.

Mande Gonne, the "Irish Joan of Arc," and John McBride, the organizer and leader of the Irish brigade in the Boer war, are soon to be married at Paris.

The match is an ideal one when the characters and the history of Major McBride and Miss Gonne are considered. Marriages of this kind do not take place more than once in a century, and hence the engagement of the two Irish enthusiasts—the one a brave soldier, the other a beautiful heiress—is an announcement of unusual interest.

Miss Gonne inherited the wealth of her father, who was a rich colonel of dragoons in the British army. She was born in Dublin castle and before her conversion to the cause of Ireland she was the pet of the vicar of the Dublin society. One day she saw an exhibition, and the sight so deeply impressed her that then and there she swore to live only for the suffering of the Irish people and the righting of their wrongs.

Major McBride, born in Paris, was one of the conspicuous figures of the Boer war. He organized the regiment of Irish Irish and fought with Jouart before Ladysmith.

The suicide of British General Hector MacDonald at Paris yesterday was cabled in the Advocate yesterday. A Paris dispatch said that the general burst into tears on reading in an English paper a Colombo dispatch giving the news of his accusation and approaching court-martial and during the afternoon he shot himself. "Fighting Mac" was one of the most popular men in the British army. He was charged with immorality.

Paris, March 26—Among the papers of Major General Sir Hector MacDonald who committed suicide at the Hotel Regina yesterday, were found letters from several persons of prominence in Ceylon assuring the accused general of their sympathy and support.

Miss Goelt and the Opal Fad.

One of the first of the fashionable set to display the iridescent trimming that has come so greatly into vogue was Miss May Goelt, who twice wore a frock at the opera that glistened with this rainbow effect, says the New York Press. The bodice in particular was sprinkled heavily with drops of opal lozenges. Several New York dressmakers took notes. This sort of style emanates from Paris, but it is not long before imitators show themselves. This opal trimming came at an opportune time. Pearls were on the wane for adding tone to a gown or hat, and jet has been overworked. Silver, too, had its fling, and gold was somewhat too startling for the average woman. So, with Miss Goelt's endorsement, opals are in the highest possible favor for early spring.

RUNAWAY

IN WHICH JOSEPH BROWN WAS PAINFULLY HURT,

While His Son Edward Had a Narrow Escape from Serious if Not Fatal Injuries

This morning about 10:45 o'clock a desperate looking runaway occurred on East Main street, which resulted in the painful injury of Joseph Brown and the narrow escape of himself and son, Edward, from serious if not fatal injuries.

Ed. Brown was driving west a spirited team of horses drawing a wagon loaded with furniture and household goods and had just crossed the Pan Handle tracks. The team frightened at an east bound street car and started to run away. Brown did his best to control them and would probably have kept them in the street, but his father became excited, and in a tempting to aid his son, caught hold of the left line swerving the horses onto the sidewalk, in front of the residence of George Conrad. The high horse plunged over the fence and the wagon followed crashing down the p'ckets. This stopped the momentum of the runaway, and threw both men from the seat. Ed was up in an instant, and at the horses' heads, preventing them from doing further damage.

The elder gentleman however, was gotten to his feet with difficulty, and it is thought a couple of ribs were fractured in his fall.

REPORTS

OF SUNDAY SCHOOLS ARE VERY ENCOURAGING.

Indications Are That Fully 500 Will Attend the County Convention Here in May.

It is encouraging to find our Sunday schools in such a good condition as many reports and observations show. The convention held at Granville on March 15, showed the schools in that township to be in excellent condition. The Presbyterian church was filled to its doors. The discussion was of the liveliest nature and on very important topics.

The Washington township convention was held at Utica and a general increase in attendance at the schools was reported.

The following extract from a letter written by Mr. L. A. Osburn of Jackson, Secretary of Licking township, shows the condition of the Sunday schools in that township: "You wished to know about the schools, so I will describe their condition as best I can. The Methodist Sunday school is now in a flourishing condition. The attendance in the last year has been large. In fact the church is a little small to accommodate the classes properly. The collections have been excellent enabling us to procure a better grade of literature for the school this coming year."

The U. B. Sunday school was reorganized in December and is doing good work.

White Chapel has not a large attendance, but they have a good school. Fairmount Sunday school usually holds only nine months in the year, but the past winter instead of totally closing their school, every two weeks just before preaching they read the lesson for that Sunday and the one previous, so keeping in touch with the lessons.

So I think you will find the schools in better working order when you come down to the convention than you did last year. We also wish to have a better program."

The following are the conventions set this last week—Newark, April 16; Licking, April 19; Newton, April 25; Madison, May 10; Union, May 10. We must have the bulk of the conventions in April, if we get them all in before the County convention, May 18 and 19.

The county association asked at the last convention that the schools contribute three cents per member enrolled towards the expense of the organized work. This will be necessary in many townships if the apportionment is met, since but one convention is held and the convention offering is usually small.

As to the attendance at the County Convention the reports from over the county make us very confident that it will reach over five hundred. C. W. Shinn, corresponding secretary.

THREEDAYS' JUBILEE

ST. LOUIS' CELEBRATION OF LOUISIANA PURCHASE CENTENNIAL.

Elaborate Preparation For Ceremonies in Which President Roosevelt and Former President Cleveland Will Participate.

[Special Correspondence.] St. Louis, March 24. The one hundredth anniversary of the signing of the Louisiana purchase treaty, on April 30, will be celebrated by the dedication of the exposition buildings and grounds and other appropriate ceremonies extending over three days. A public holiday season will be proclaimed covering April 29 and May 1 and 2.

The dedicatory ceremony will be performed by President Roosevelt, the principal address being delivered by his only living predecessor, ex-President Grover Cleveland. President Francis of the exposition, who will be the presiding officer, will tender the buildings and grounds to Hon. Thomas H. Carter, president of the national commission, who will then turn them over to the president of the United States.

The religious portion of the exercises will be conducted by Cardinal Gibbons and Bishops Hendrix and Potter, assisted by a chorus of 2,000 voices composed of members of the Choral Symphony society, the Sengerfest chorus, the Morning Choral club and the Apollo club.

The exercises will be attended not only by President Roosevelt and the members of his cabinet, but also by the foreign ambassadors and ministers at Washington, the chief justice and associate justices of the United States supreme court, numerous members of both houses of congress, army and navy officers and governors of many states and territories.

Prior to the dedicatory exercises, which will be held in the afternoon of April 30, there will be a military parade under the command of Major General Henry C. Corbin as grand marshal.

The governors of the Louisiana purchase states will be present, accompanied by their staffs. The governors of many other states will also participate in the ceremonies. In the parade there are expected to be over 5,000 government troops and 10,000 members of the national guard of Missouri and adjacent states.

Pyrotechnic displays will form a notable feature of the celebration. The fireworks display will cover the entire three days and provide both day and evening displays. Among the features will be the unfurling of an American flag 300 by 400 feet in size and the flags of several of the leading nations of the world 200 by 300 feet in size. These will be carried 2,000 feet into the air by seven immense balloons, and there the fireworks of which they are composed will be set off.

One of the set pieces will be a representation, full size, of the illuminated cascades and colonnades of the Cascade gardens. This will be more than fifty feet high, with the central feature 200 feet high and the whole over a quarter of a mile long. There will be flights of 100 rockets of various kinds, flights of 100 bombs, 1,000 triple star candles, 500 marmoth prismatic whirlywinds, volleys of 1,000 showers, grand bonquet of 5,000 large colored rockets, a Jacob's ladder consisting of 1,000 special rockets and an illumination of the park.

Abundant means of entertainment will be provided, including numerous musical events, and three days of day-city such as no American city has ever before furnished are promised, in which it is expected more than 200,000 people will join.

It will be a fitting tribute to the formal opening of the great fair and furnish visitors with something of a foretaste of the delights that await them next year. By the way, the preparations for the exposition are on apace.

The demand for exhibit space in all departments is such that it will undoubtedly be all taken months before the opening day. Exhibitors are being made rapidly. The value of the annual product of manufacturing industries in the United States is increased 10 per cent since the Louisiana exposition at Chicago. Nature is standing the far greater area of exhibit space for the Louisiana Purchase exposition in comparison with the Chicago fair of 1893.

By less in proportion to the probable demands from the manufacturers and producers in the United States and foreign countries.

Animals and Alcohol.

Many animals yield to the seduction of rum drinking, especially elephants, horses, cows and swine. Poultry, especially turkeys, will absorb the tempting drink till they tumble over in leaden sleep, lying around as if dead and utterly ignoring their accustomed roost. On awakening they stagger for a few moments and soon recover, but it is hours before they renew their cheerful cackling.

Their Lost.

"Yes," remarked the sad looking stranger, "I have seen the last of many a good man."

"Doctor or undertaker?" queried the man behind the white apron.

"Neither," replied he of the sad looks. "I'm a shoemaker."

A Deep Thought.

"In a brown study, eh?"

"Yes, I was just thinking."

"Thinking what?"

"I was just wondering why a fellow never has as much trouble borrowing trouble as the trouble he has borrowing other things."

DON'T DELAY.

It is "Putting Off" Till Some Other Day that Causes so Many Sudden Deaths.

If its for the kidney, liver, bladder or blood, rheumatism, dyspepsia, chronic constipation, or the weaknesses peculiar to women, this most efficient medicine known to the medical profession is Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and a very simple way to find out if you need it, is to put some urine in a glass tumbler and let it stand 24 hours, if it has a sediment or a milky, cloudy appearance, if it isropy or stringy, pale or discolored, you do not need a physician to tell you that your kidneys and bladder are badly affected.

The Rev. Theodore Hunter, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Greensburg, Ky., writes us the following:

"It gives me much pleasure to state that I have received great benefit from the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. Some time ago I had a severe attack of kidney trouble, but a few bottles of 'Favorite Remedy' have entirely removed the malady."

"Favorite Remedy" speedily cures such dangerous symptoms as pain in the back, frequent desire to urinate, especially at night, burning scalding pain in passing water, the stinging of bluen by your urine.

It is for sale by all druggists in the New 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles—less than a cent a dose. Sample bottle—enough for trial, free by mail. Dr. David Kennedy Corporation, Rondout, N. Y.

STANTON'S IRISH STEW.

A Story of the Great War Secretary as Told by His Bodyguard.

An attempt by Secretary of War Stanton to cook up Irish stew while holding the war department office against the removal order of President Andrew Johnson is one of many anecdotes related by Louis Koerth, at the period mentioned the great war secretary's bodyguard.

Feb. 21, 1868, President Johnson appointed General Lorenzo Thomas secretary of war ad interim. But the power of removal having been taken by the tenure of office act from the president, Mr. Stanton refused to resign or to vacate the office of secretary.

He camped in the office, determined to hold it until the result of the impeachment proceedings against the president, which were then pending in the senate, should be determined. For sixty days Mr. Stanton held "the fort," and during that period his faithful bodyguard, ex-Sergeant Louis Koerth, then in the United States general service, assigned to the war department, kept him company.

On the day when Mr. Stanton received the official notification of his removal by the president he made immediate preparations for a siege. He dispatched Sergeant Koerth to Mrs. Stanton for blankets and pillows, but that lady refused to send them, insisting that the secretary should come home and give up the office.

Mr. Stanton smiled on receiving her message and supply said:

"Koerth, go to your own house and bring blankets, pillows and such cooking utensils as we may need."

The Irish stew was the first effort of the secretary and his bodyguard. Koerth, being a German, needed instructions in the mysteries of preparing the savory stew, and the secretary named the various ingredients, which he ordered the servant to purchase.

Both men had spent a busy and laboriously exciting day, and both were tired out when the pot was put on the fire to cook the stew.

The consequence was that the great war secretary and his bodyguard fell asleep. The secretary was the first to be awakened by the smell of the burning stew.

"Koerth, Koerth! Wake up, man!" shouted Mr. Stanton. "The stew is burning."

Koerth sprang to his feet, but, alas, too late to save Mr. Stanton's Irish stew. It was burned and smoking, while the pot was a glowing red. Ruefully the secretary rolled himself up in his blankets on the sofa and went to sleep for the night supperless.—Washington Post.

HUB OF POPULATION

WHERE THE EXACT CENTER IS LOCATED.

The Spot Is In Farmer Marr's Barnyard, About Five Miles Southwest of Columbus, Ind.—How the Spot Is Marked.

(Special Correspondence)
Columbus, Ind., March 10.—Not so far from this town is a spot which has a unique claim to fame, for it is the exact center of population of the whole United States. In technical language, as found in a bulletin issued by the census bureau, the exact center is located at latitude 39 degrees, 9 minutes and 30 seconds north, longitude 85 degrees, 48 minutes and 54 seconds west. This in popular parlance, as given by a Columbus man, means that the exact center is "five miles southwest of Columbus, in Henry Marr's barnyard."

HENRY MARR STANDING AT EXACT CENTER OF POPULATION.

Henry Marr, farmer, thus enjoys the distinction of being the center man of the United States. He bears his honors modestly, but takes pride in pointing out to visitors the spot which has drawn so much attention to him. He is a son of James Marr, a retired farmer, who is now seventy-eight years of age. Henry Marr himself is a man past forty and for the last seventeen years has resided on the farm he now occupies. Time has dealt kindly with him, and he has aided time by being thrifty, so the Marr farmhouse, which was built a few years ago at a cost of $8,000, is a model of completeness, fitted with many modern improvements, and the Marr farm, covering fifty acres, enjoys the name of being one of the "best pieces of ground in the country."

One thing that has of recent years been a material help to the countryman, as he said in a recent interview, is the fact that he can talk by telephone directly from his home to many of the principal cities of the surrounding country, thus receiving daily the weather forecasts and market reports, both of which are of great aid to him, the one giving him timely advice for his agricultural work and the other letting him know when to sell or hold his stock and grain. He was also a beneficiary of the first free rural delivery route instituted in the country, the carrier from the little town of Hope passing his homestead daily.

To travelers, of course, the exact center of population is an out of the way spot, but notwithstanding this many people from different parts of the country have paid the Marr farm a visit in order to be able to say that they have "stood on the center."

Leaving Columbus visitors drive south over the old state road, a noted thoroughfare in the days of the civil war. The drive is over a typical pike, and the tourist is rewarded on route by a pleasant panorama of the richest agricultural country in southern Indiana, a sort of rich prairie land interspersed with wheat and corn fields.

Before the five mile drive is completed a monument is met which notifies the sightseer to turn to the left and down a lane. A quarter of a mile more and the Marr residence is reached. Once inside the barnyard there is no trouble in finding the center of population, for the place is indicated by a flat stone slab, marked 1900, at one end of which rises a pretentious "marker" erected by an Indianapolis newspaper and proclaiming the reason for the pivotal stone on the ground, eighteen feet from the huge red barn.

Then for the first time one realizes that one is well paid for the trouble of making the trip, and an indescribable impulse moves one to step squarely upon the stone and appreciate the novel sensation of imagining that to the north of him are 185,000,000 persons and a like number to the south, east and west, and that for the time being one is the center person of this vast population.

Should a tourist arrive at the homestead around meal times he will likely have an opportunity to testify to the merits of Mrs. Marr's cookery, and that she is a famous cook is the unanimous verdict of all who have been lucky enough to enjoy the dainties she provides. All visitors are greeted in a courteous and friendly manner, and Mr. Marr deems it no trouble to show them all over the farm if they desire to inspect the environment of the "center."

The day the slab and marker were erected was a gala one in the country around the Marr home, several hundred farmers and other visitors being present when the stones were set in place. Just where the center of population will be when the next census is taken it is difficult to say, but it is to be hoped that it will be as pleasantly situated as is the center of today.

AUDITORIUM, APRIL 1.

One of the hardest tasks known to the modern amusement caterer is the putting together of a model vaudeville bill which will suit the tastes of young and old, ladies and gentlemen, at the same time. This problem has been successfully solved in the arrangement of the big all star cast which composes the Big Fashionable Century Vaudeville Show that will be seen here on Wednesday, April 1, at the Auditorium. The comedy element is represented by Bryant & Saville, musical comedians, Trask & Rogers, the black face comedians and dancers, and Laredo & Blake, comedy acrobats. The latest fancies in wit and humor are told by Chris Lane who is Ezra Kendall's only rival in this peculiar field. Mabel Goodwin dances her way into the hearts of the audience as a little ray of sunshine, and the Great Leonzo performs some wonderful tricks in juggling which make the children almost frantic with delight. Of a peculiarly educational value is the wonderful Kinadrome, which contains a selection of moving pictures that represent actual occurrences in city and country of recent date.

Salvation Army.

To those that know them the idea of a special season of self-denial and mortification of the flesh and its appetites would seem for the members of the Salvation Army altogether a "work of supererogation"—to borrow an old Wesleyan phrase. Nevertheless these indefatigable workers for God and good now announce their annual season of prayer and self-denial, the week of April 5 to 12 being set apart for that purpose. During this period every possible effort will be made by self-sacrifice and prayer to get funds so sorely needed in order to carry on the work of this mighty organization. The officers locally in charge earnestly request the active co-operation of all army friends in this neighborhood.

Change in the Views of Donkshobors.

The Donkshobors, the Russian sect with which the Canadian authorities had so much trouble at the beginning of the winter, have now apparently settled down to become good citizens, says the Toronto correspondent of the Philadelphia Press. Dispatches from Winnipeg state that they have abandoned the former craze, which led them to turn their horses and cattle loose, and are beginning to make applications for homesteads.
